

Johnny And Suzy Better Get Cracking

A University of Chicago study shows Russian high school students are ten times better educated in math and science than American students. While Ivan and Olga are waltzing through advanced calculus, Johnny and Suzy are still stumbling over fractions. It's disgraceful that at a time so crucial to our nation, many of our students aren't even learning the basics. There is something you can do, right now. Work with your youngsters tonight and every night. Make sure they are learning, and know the importance of learning. If your children are getting a poor education, don't blame someone else. Proper education is the responsibility of the parent. They're not the school's kids. They're yours.

COLORED BACKGROUND

Your Future... Is Just Around The Corner

What plans has your recent high school graduate made to prepare for his or her future?

Do these plans require an academic degree, technical training, health occupations education? Are daytime classes needed, or do evening classes better meet the needs? Is financial aid important?

Does your graduate want the best quality education for the lowest possible cost?

Does he or she need to talk to a caring professional who can help answer these questions, and more?

And what about plans for yourself?

Do you want to improve skills for your current job, reenter the workforce after raising a family, get that degree you never had time to pursue? Are there classes you want to take for enrichment or just plain fun?

Do you want to plan an education with counselors who understand the adult student, and attend classes at a college which supports an Adult Student Association? Are you interested in a college which provides FREE tuition for anyone age 60 or over?

Call us to register, or to begin planning your future!

But call now! The future really is just around the corner...

DROWNING SEARCH Members of the Elba Rescue Squad prepare to begin a search for drowning victim James Bundy, who witnesses say dove off the railing on this pier, swam almost two-thirds across before disappearing underwater. His body was found shortly before nightfall in the deep pond by one of three boats working the area with depth finders and drag hooks. It was raining almost continuously during the search, but when the 34 year old man went into the water, it was hot and sunny. His shirt can be seen hanging on the dock chair in the foreground.

Elba voters set to go to the polls for August 23 city elections

The voters in the City of Elba will go to the polls on Tuesday, August 23 and select a mayor and five members of the city council. Incumbent Bob English will seek a third term as mayor and will face opposition from county coroner Fred Moore, councilman Jack Prescott, former mayor Bob Folsom and local businessman Jeff Bimbo.

The members of the city council will be elected from wards in the election, and for the first time ever, only those voters in each district will cast votes for their candidates.

In Ward 1, where residents will vote at the old Mulberry School, incumbent Gladys Yelverton will seek a second term on the council and will be opposed by Jerry McMillan, a decorated veteran of the Viet Nam conflict and an employee of General Telephone and L.M. Burch, an employee of General Telephone and a local businessman.

In Ward 2, where residents will vote in the Army Reserve Center on the Claxton Avenue, incumbent John W. Sharpless will seek a third term on the council and will be opposed by former councilman L.F. "Sonny" Inman and political newcomer Tim Morrow, a lifelong Elba resident.

In Ward 3, where voters will vote at the public library, Ben Carpenter, a familiar face in city politics, will oppose Bill Brunson, a political newcomer and a lifelong resident of the city.

In Ward 4, where citizens will mark their ballots at the National Guard armory on the Airport Road, four political newcomers will battle for the seat. Randy Bedsole, Ronnie Jinright, Sue Parker and Fred Qualls, all popular residents of Elba, will seek the seat on the council.

Absentee voters urged to vote, but vote legally

Alabama Secretary of State Glen Browder reported this week that he had a short piece of advice for absentee voters in municipal elections coming up next week - "Vote, but vote legally!"

In a Democratic radio address recently, Browder told Alabamians that charges of absentee ballot abuse are spreading like wildfire and he reminded voters that his office and the Attorney General are conducting a statewide investigation of possible abuses.

"The right to cast an absentee ballot is an important part of American democracy and an absentee vote is just as sacred as voting in person," stated Browder, "but if you plan to vote absentee, make sure you meet the legal requirements."

In his message, Browder said that the two qualifications for casting an absentee ballot are that the voter must be unable to go to the polls due to physical illness or infirmity or that the voter will be absent from the county on election day.

Besides being careful that voters meet the legal requirements for voting absentee, Browder is urging candidates and voters to avoid undue influence in the absentee election process. State law provides criminal penalties for encouraging an illegal ballot or illegally assisting an absentee voter.

Nordan to be

Historical Society guest speaker

Mr. W.W. Nordan, of Abbeville, will be the guest speaker for the September meeting of the Pea River Historical Society. The meeting will be held at the Welcome Center on the Highway 64 By-Pass in Enterprise at 3:00 p.m. on Sunday, September 18.

This will be the first meeting of the current year and it is open to the public.

Mr. Nordan is the founder of the Henry County Historical Society and is an authority on the Chattahoochee River Valley. Henry County is older than the state of Alabama and is the "Mother County" of Coffee County and surrounding counties. Mr. Nordan will present a slide presentation of many things pertaining to our Wiregrass area.

Commission halts construction of new DA building

The Coffee County Commission held a special emergency meeting on Thursday, August 11 and put the construction of a new building for the county's District Attorney on hold because of an error that resulted in the building being built on private property located next door to the courthouse in Enterprise.

According to Probate Judge Marion Brunson, the new building is being constructed on land owned by Lena Goodson.

Brunson explained that in 1981 the county purchased a tract of the Goodson property that excluded a strip measuring 50 by 103. The new building under construction is apparently located on that strip not owned by the county.

County Attorney Warren Rowe told the commissioners that they had two choices. "One, condemnation of the property or two, picking up our stuff, tearing down the work already done and putting the land back like it was." After the commissioners expressed opposition to any condemnation procedures, Rowe said "We'll just go down there, tell Mrs. Goodson we're sorry it happened, put the property back like it was and then pick up our tools and get off her property."

County maintenance supervisor John Flowers reported that the county had already spent over $5,000 in construction of a retaining wall and the building's foundation, and after being told the work would have to be removed, asked where the building would be placed. The commissioners stated they would have to consider a new site and would make their selection as soon as possible.

Hearing set for today in Elba

A state pathologist testified last week in a hearing for capital murder suspect Tommy Horstead that a seven-year-old Enterprise youth died because of strangulation from behind while being sexually abused.

The "habeas corpus" hearing, held in Troy, involved Horstead, of the Shiloh Community, who is charged with capital murder in connection with the death of a seven-year-old Enterprise boy who was discovered in a vacant lot in the city in March.

Dr. Alfredo Paredes testified that the victim - Antonio Jermaine Brundidge, was strangled from behind during an act of sexual abuse. Circuit Judge Terry Butts continued the hearing until August 18, in Elba, due to conflicts in courtroom schedules.
